The Risks of Mistaking Momentum Investing for Quality Investing

by Pieter Fourie, CFA, Head of Global Equities

The Sanlam Global High Quality fund invests in high quality businesses with a long term time horizon, and adds value through active management. It invests with no reference to the index, focusing on businesses with durable business models. Since inception, the investment philosophy of the Fund has remained unchanged.

A major challenge facing quality investors at the moment is that they are paying a record premium for the safety of

We remain in an environment where slowing economic growth and pressure on margins make it tougher for companies to deliver on earnings expectations. However, it is pleasing to see that those businesses that can deliver are being rewarded via increasing share prices, and we continue to put great emphasis on selecting stocks that can execute their business plans regardless of the economic uncertainty.

We follow an approach which allows us to wait patiently to enter positions in companies which we cover from our universe of roughly 120 names.

Recent examples of stocks which have performed well for us include Medtronic, Bayer, Allergan and Intercontinental Hotels.

Medtronic posted strong results, with organic growth of 3.5% and all four of the company's main operating segments beating the market's expectations. The company's good start to its fiscal year was reaffirmed by management maintaining their yearly guidance of 4.0% organic growth. The anticipation of the forthcoming unveiling of the company's long awaited surgical robot platform and several pipeline assets launching have helped to support near term expectations. Looking at the valuation range of Medtronic we do notice that the company is now trading towards the upper end of the range and we have started to reduce the position.

Bayer rallied +13.6% in August as the beneficiary of a couple of pieces of company-specific good new bit of news was a rumour that Bayer had reportedly agreed to pay $8 billion to settle thousands of laws that Roundup weed killers (that they inherited in their Monsanto acquisition) caused cancer. This was s positive news by the market primarily due to the removal of that particular overhang, even though the se higher than sell-side analysts had assumed. The second bit of positive news for Bayer was the sale of health business for €6.9 billion, higher than market expectations. This will go some way to paying down company debt as well as simplifying the business.	uits alleging een as ettlement was their animal hotel brand in the world. The company is well positioned in all major markets with their predominant focus on the Americas region. We expect IHG's growth opportunities in Asia to meaningfully contribute to the group's earnings potential over the next decade and beyond. IHG has an attractive recurring-fee business model with low capital requirements. The asset-light business model generates about 95% of its cash flow from franchised and managed hotels with these two segments making up 99% of rooms in the group.

Intercontinental generates close to a 50% return on capital and the free cash flow yield of 5.5% is in line with the average free cash flow yield of the fund. If our forecasts are accurate the average free cash flow yield for the group over the next 5 years would be close to 7.0% from today's share price levels.

By bringing in new names in to the portfolio we continue to maintain our valuation discipline on the fund even in the face of ever increasing multiples for high quality businesses.

Important Information

The Fund may invest in companies based in emerging markets which may involve additional risks not typically associated with other more established markets such as increased risk of social, economic and political uncertainty. The Fund has holdings which are denominated in currencies other than sterling and may be affected by movements in exchange rates. Consequently the value of an investment may rise or fall in line with the exchange rates.

The value of this portfolio is subject to fluctuation and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future performance. The performance is calculated for the portfolio and the actual individual investor performance will differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. All terms exclude costs. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying investments to go up or down. Do remember that the value of participatory interests or the investment and the income generated from them may go down as well as up and is not guaranteed, therefore, you may not get back the amount originally invested and potentially risk total loss of capital. Therefore, the Manager does not provide any guarantee either with respect to the capital or the return of a portfolio. The Manager has the right to close any Portfolios to new investors to manage them more efficiently in accordance with their mandates. Collective Investment Schemes are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. Collective Investment Schemes (CIS) are generally medium to long term investments.
